5. Correspondence:

- a. Bradie Hanson emailed the Board regarding telepsychology with out of state clients. The Board responded that a Vermont psychologist may provide distance services through HIPAA-compliant internet or telephonic services, consistent with the informed consent of the client and the same practice standards that apply to in-person practice. The Board cannot speak to licensing obligations in other states. If practicing telepsychology with a client in another jurisdiction, a psychologist must ensure compliance with that jurisdiction's laws, including any obligation to be licensed in that jurisdiction. She also asked whether she may work with a psychology client as a Weaving a Life leader. The Board considers that the therapeutic relationship is primary and cannot be distinguished from a non-therapeutic or quasi-therapeutic professional function. The Board encourages her to view Weaving a Life work, undertaken with a client, as similar to a modality, and one subject to the same rules, constraints, and ethics precepts as are applicable to any other clinical function.

- b. Janette Kerr emailed the Board asking the state requirements allowing a clinician to conduct an assessment to determine if someone has ADD or ADHD and if a LCMHC or LADC can be certified to conduct such assessments. The Board needs to know what specific procedures or instruments she has in mind and what certifications she is referring to.

6. Topics for Discussion:

- a. ASPPB EPPP Part 2:

Dr. Miller will be attending the ASPPB meeting in October in Salt Lake City, Utah. The Board currently stands by the letter that was sent to the Listserv for ASPPB on June 8. The Board supports Dr. Miller's judgement when voting at this meeting.

Dr. Miller will contact ASPPB to see if a representative would be able to come to the Board's September meeting to discuss this issue.
