

State of Vermont
OFFICE OF THE LIEUTENANT GOVERNOR

March 15, 2011

To Whom It May Concern:

I wanted to take a moment to tell you about Joelle Lamberton.

Joelle has been a part-time employee of mine at DuBois Construction, Inc., as well as a volunteer for my election campaigns for State Senator and for Lt. Governor of the State of Vermont. I have known Joelle and her family for many years, and in that time she has grown into an accomplished, mature young woman.

Joelle was employed as an office assistant at DuBois Construction. Her duties included general office work such as answering the phone, two-way radio dispatching, greeting customers, and cash sales. Joelle always arrived on time, her quality of work was good, and her demeanor was outstanding.

When I've run my election campaigns, whether for State Senator or, this past year, for Lt. Governor, I've counted on dependable volunteers, and Joelle always fit the bill. She has been an asset to our campaign committee, contributing not only her time and effort, but also a young person's point of view. Joelle has been happy to volunteer her time, whether it's addressing envelopes or joining in on "waving" dates during morning and evening rush hours.

Joelle's ability to balance school work, extracurricular activities, sports, part time jobs, and involvement in the community has left a huge impression on me. She has been able to achieve above average grades; has taken leadership positions among her classmates; has taken on the responsibilities of part time jobs; and has made time to give back to her community. It is clear to me, as I hope it is to you, that this young woman, Joelle Lamberton, is an exceptional candidate, one who would contribute greatly to any program. I wholeheartedly recommend her and wish her the very best in all future endeavors.

Best regards,
