OK just handle it for us then; please tell Alex and ask whether you need to speak with Shap/Tom/Margaret or others. This cannot kill the bill and there are two risks: 1) CVPS and utils basically pushing the "open docket" issue because they hate having no opt out fee; and 2) merger folks wanting either to embarrass the admin or cause a loss based upon this issue that was used against them, essentially. This is a different issue; while I would have preferred the "study and wait" approach the determination to axe the fee is the legislature's - and it is most certainly prospective as no opt out fee had been assessed and under the revised tariffs could not be for a year or so. etc etc
