Subject: Nomination process question

Good morning Jessica. While meeting with a few legislators recently, questions arose about how the selection process for new members to the Fish and Wildlife Board works. The specific question is how/where does the process begin....i.e. How does a name surface in the very first place? Does that happen within your office, the DFW, or legislators? Is there public outreach? Thinking say the last 3 members....what was the genesis for those 3?

Many thanks for shedding light on this. Walter
