

Overview

The Vermont Community Development Program (VCDP) administers funding from the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) under the Community Development Block Grant (CDBG) program. The CDBG program celebrated its 40th anniversary this year. Activities that support economic development and affordable housing continue to be VCDP's top priorities for funding. The VCDP assists communities on a competitive basis by providing financial and technical assistance to identify and address local needs in the areas of housing, economic development, public facilities, public services and handicapped accessibility modifications. The program is designed to predominantly benefit persons of low and moderate income. In addition, financial assistance is provided to communities with urgent needs, such as threats to health and safety and removal of slums and blighted properties. The CDBG allocation for the last program year was $6,571,638, which represents a 9% increase from the previous year. The program was able to leverage nearly $68 million dollars. The CDBG program received 21 applications requesting approximately $9 million.

Program Accomplishments

During this past year, the majority of CDBG funds were awarded to housing, accessibility modifications and planning projects. A breakdown of awards made this year by project types follows. Program income from previous grants, other returned funds from prior years, and a small forward commitment of next year's allocation made it possible for all the projects below to be awarded.

Planning Grants

Vermont communities are afforded opportunities to undertake community development planning through technical expertise and professional resources for one or more of the VCDP areas of eligibility – housing, economic development, public facilities and public services.
