- Businesses are the innovators and problem solvers of our communities. It's because of the businesses here today that we have such unique opportunities in Vermont.
 - Opportunities for employment or a pivot in careers can help Vermonters find greater security and help our communities grow.
 - Job fairs provide unique opportunity for engagement, networking, and potential new partnerships. Take advantage of today's interactions.
 - Sincere hope that the interactions at today's job fair will provide positive results for both employers and job seekers.
 - There are no short cuts to success; success in your career requires hard work and dedication.
 - I encourage job seekers to engage with employers today as much as possible, as this might be a door to your bright future.
